Massive Ransomware Attack in Texas Hits 22 Cities and Towns, Hackers Demand Millions in Payment

SCOTT IKEDA · SEPTEMBER 2, 2019

Share Tweet Share Pin it

An individual threat actor is believed to be behind a recent attack that has locked up the agencies of nearly two dozen small cities and towns in Texas. 22 Texas municipalities, in mostly rural areas, were hit with a ransomware attack that crippled key city services such as payment processing operations and the printing of identity documents.

The attacker whose identity is still unknown at
